

March Column

Free Access to The New York Times Online

Yes, you read that headline right. The San Juan Island Library now offers FREE access to The New York Times online.

You can enjoy complimentary, simultaneous, unlimited access inside the Library, and complimentary limited access outside the Library to the world's finest journalism through the Library's new partnership with The New York Times.

Go to www.sjlib.org and click on the link for The New York Times under Featured Services at the top of our home page. That first time you will be asked to register for an account with www.nytimes.com/register.

When away from the Library, use the Home Access link with your library card and redeem the given code for 72 hours of online access to the paper. When the time expires, just redeem another code.

You also have off-site access through NYT smartphone apps for iPhone, Blackberry 10, Windows Phone, and Android-powered phones.

Browse international news, see interactive videos and photos, browse thousands of "Times Topics," read book reviews, view Market Data charts, indexes and interactive tools, and even share your favorite articles with friends and family via Facebook, Twitter and/or email.

You have access to archived articles published between 1851 through 1922, and 1981 through present day. The only catch is no NYT Crosswords!

So what are you waiting for? Go to www.sjlib.org now and start accessing your Library's subscription to The New York Times TODAY!

Laurie Orton

Library Director